Dear Housing,

I have been a resident in Chino Hills since 1986. I moved away from Los Angeles, away from the congestion, traffic and crime.

And now it seems like I'm reliving in Los Angeles again! The City of Chino Hills has allowed all these developers to build housing on small dirt lots and smashing all these communities, apartments and condos, which then has caused restaurant congestion, not enough parking and traffic. Our main roads, Grand and Chino Hills pkwy have become highways. What used to take 10-15 minutes to go from one end of the city to the other side, now takes 50 minutes. What has the City of Chino Hills done to the little calm quiet town? Is it all about the money? What about the quality of life? What happened to the areas that were supposedly National Forest protected areas? San Bernardino County is huge, there's still a lot of large open land, why don't you build there and Stop over crowding the developed cities.
